A pair of quality 18th Century French fauteuils in original paint.

Fauteuils emerged in France during the 18th Century and dramatically changed the concept of seating. Louis XIV had set a very strict court etiquette, whereby only a chosen few were allowed to sit down.

Louis Philippe II had a very different approach and as social mobility grew, fauteuils were introduced as a comfortable chair that could be easily moved and provided seating for intellectuals and gentlemen.

These chairs have the trademark exposed wooden frame and are ready for re-upholstery in a fabric of your choice.
