Very pretty 20th Century silver-plated butler's tray table.

Butler's tray tables originated in the 18th Century, and were a lightweight and portable staple for any respectable household.

This very classic tray table is comprised of a double cross-frame stand with a large and simple handled tray on top.

The silver plate has a lovely worn patina in parts, commensurate with age and use.

This is a lovely traditional piece, that will provide a useful side table and decorative accent in any home.
