19th Century French walnut commode with its original marble top.

This delightful commode embodies the neoclassical style of the Empire. The rectangular body with three drawers is framed by pilasters.

The three drawers feature beautifully matched veneers which resemble yew-wood oysters.

Retaining its original hardware, and resting on pronounced architectural column feet.

The pièce de résistance is the white marble top with grey veining.

This is a stunning piece that has excellent patina, with a number of possible uses.
