Early 20th Century etched glass mirror, taken from The Park Lane Hotel's famous ballroom when it was refurbished.

The mirror has been placed in a sympathetic plain black frame and features an etched dancing figure.

The Park Lane Hotel, now called the Sheraton Grand London Park Lane, is one of London's finest Art Deco buildings.

The ballroom was particularly impressive, designed by Higgs & Hill and frequented by London's elites.

This is a very pretty mirror with great provenance.
