

DA8715305

Victorian Crocodile Skin Vessel

£695.00

W: 34.5 cm (13 9/16")
H: 31.5 cm (12 3/8")
D: 34.5 cm (13 9/16")

Decorative Victorian crocodile skin vessel, attributed to Rowland Ward.

James Rowland Ward was one of Britain's most prolific taxidermists. His firm, based in London's Piccadilly, was renowned for its work on what was then considered 'big game trophies.'

Materials & Techniques: Leather, Wood
Condition: Fair
Period: 19th Cent

