Large Danish rosewood coffee table, designed by Arne Vodder for France & Søn circa 1965.

This table has a fabulous rectilinear parquetry top comprising contrasting veneered sections of highly figured rosewood. The whole original surface has faded to a wonderful mellow patina.

Retaining its original inset circular France & Søn label.

Arne Vodder (1926 - 2009) was a prominent Danish Mid Century designer. He was part of the 'second generation' of Danish designers and studied under Finn Juhl at the Danish Academy of Fine Arts. He excelled in both furniture design and architecture over his long career. Whilst he is lesser well-known than some of his contemporaries, his pieces are celebrated for successfully marrying form and function.

France & Søn was founded in 1948 and went on to become the epitome of Danish modern design.

This is a stylish piece of Mid Century design that will look brilliant in any setting.
