Lovely Swedish early 19th Century stick-back sofa.

This sofa has an attractive neoclassical form, with individually hand-carved spindles making up the back - each with a tapering reeded design. The rest of the frame features egg-and-dart moulded borders.

It was originally designed as a single bed so the bottom pulls out, offering a useful storage option. Resting on column tapering legs.

This piece has been dry-scraped back to expose the original paint. Reupholstered in a neutral French linen.
