

DA8717069

Pair of English 18th Century Mounted Sickles £395.00

W: 43 cm (16 15/16")
H: 80 cm (31 1/2")
D: 0 cm

Charming pair of 18th Century sickles.

This pair of sickles have been mounted onto a metal base, making them stable as well as striking.

A sickle was typically used for agricultural purposes such as harvesting grain or crops. Designs for sickles date back to the Pre-neolithic era and are still used within modern machinery for grain harvesting.

Both have a fantastic primitive look.

A great decorative pair to start a conversation within any setting.

Materials & Techniques: 210
Condition: Excellent
Period: 18th Cent and Earlier

