Superb composition French Goose with its original paint, circa 1920.

This statue is a particularly well made example with a raised tail and wing feathers. It has its original paint-work that is in great condition for its age and this shall continue to age beautifully if looked after.

The body stands on a composition stone base that has been painted to represent moss and lichen, adding to this piece's depth and aesthetic values.

It is a fun ornament for any garden design, especially if you have a pond for it to frolic in!
