Fantastic 19th Century boulangerie rack with original paintwork.

This display piece would have originally come from a 'Boulangerie' in France. It would have been used to display the day's bread, croissants, brioche, etc within a local bakery.

This fantastic piece features a Parisian makers mark and decorative brass shelf trims that are adorned with finials. It is decorated with scrolls to the central dividers that are beautifully cast and are a great focal point for the piece.

The shelves are removable.

Within today's home, these shelves will make for a useful and attractive element in a kitchen. It could also be used to display flowers in a florist's shop or would be even more perfect in a shop or 'delicatessen' selling high-end food.
