The frame originates from the Oxford and Cambridge Club, Pall Mall, St. James's, London UK, It originally framed a large canvas by the Italian Baroque painter Salvator Rosa that formed part of the original decoration when the Oxford and Cambridge club was formed in 1830. In 1972 the Oxford and Cambridge Club amalgamated with United University Club, founded in 1821 and at this point the Salvator Rosa was sold minus the frame. The Frame has been in the ownership of the dealer who organised the sale until now when it is for the first time going on sale to the public. A rare chance to acquire a genuine piece of London History.
