Superb 20th Century framed exposures of an unknown sitter.

This lovely set of negatives shows a female sitter who is beautifully dressed in tailored clothing. The first three exposures show the sitter to be wearing a cloche hat which was a popular style during the 1930s and the last hat is heavily brimmed.

Because the images were taken using a black and white film, the texture of both hats is superbly highlighted which has created a beautiful depth throughout all four exposures...

The collection has recently been re-framed and is in great condition for its age.

A fantastic set for any fashion enthusiast!
