Low stool or window seat, dating to the late Louis XV period circa 1770.

By the time of Louis XV's reign, seat furniture placed a particular emphasis on comfort as is clearly seen in this stool.

It features its original buttoned squab cushion, which creates a very inviting seat. The cushion has been recovered in Nina Campbell 'Kew' linen.

With its cabriole legs and fine scroll apron, this is a very eye-catching and elegant stool.
